U.S. AND BRITISH TROOPS IN AFRICA

ALLIED PURSUIT OF AXIS ARMY

FROM 30,000 TO 40,000 PRISONERS

THE Allied Armies in the desert, says Reuter, are nearing the Libyan frontier in unrelenting pursuit of the shattered Axis forces. Between 30,000 and 40,000 prisoners have been taken, and enormous numbers of tanks and guns captured or destroyed.

Mersa Matruh is again in Allied hands, and spearheads are pushing beyond Sidi Barrani.

CAIRO, Sunday.—Reuter's correspondent here says:—"British forces are nearing the frontier in unremitting pursuit of the remnants of Marshal Rommel's armies fleeing from Egypt. Mersa Matruh is in our hands and the onrushing British forces are now in the vicinity of Sidi Barrani or perhaps beyond it.

"The bulk of what was once the German Panzer Army has reached or passed the Libyan frontier in full flight. A German rearguard to the east of Halfaya (Hellfire) Pass has been surrounded and defeated west of Mersa Matruh. Marshal Rommel's African Legions are nothing but mere shreds to-day.

AXIS LOSSES

The latest unofficial estimates of the Axis losses are between 30,000 and 40,000 prisoners and 500 tanks and 1,000 guns destroyed or captured. The present strength of Marshal Rommel's remaining forces is estimated at less than 20,000.

"South African armoured cars have captured 2,000 enemy troops, mainly Italian, south of Mersa Matruh, making 4,000 they have collected in two days. In a similar period a British armoured brigade has destroyed or captured fifty Italian Mark 13 tanks.

"Allied medium and heavy bombers, continuing their nightly non-stop attacks on the retreating enemy, last night located masses of Axis transport, including tanks, and pounded them with bombs. At least 30 vehicles were burning at regular intervals along the road at one time during the night. A terrific explosion came from a group of vehicles attacked some fifty yards from the road at Halfaya."

SIX DIVISIONS TAKEN

"The six Italian infantry divisions, which were trapped by the Eighth Army in the desert, have all been captured with complete equipment.

LONDON, Sunday — Vichy radio stated to-day that several German-Italian counter-attacks against the British spearhead in Egypt had forced the British to withdraw and give up a "point of great importance." The battle is still being fought in Egypt, and when we say in Egypt we mean that the battle is still east of Mersa Matruh," said Rome Radio to-day. This means that the Axis troops are still in Egyptian territory, and that the battle, having now been pushed out of the El Alamein bottleneck, has resumed its character of manœuvre. A similar claim was made by German Radio and the German News Agency.—(Reuter.)

RUSSIANS REGAIN MORE POSITIONS

GERMAN CAUCASUS PUSH STOPPED

MOSCOW, Sunday. — Reuter's Correspondent here says: "Soviet troops have hit back vigorously on the Nalchik front, east of Mozdok, after arresting the German advance. Fighting of a fierce character has been going on for 24 hours. The Germans have lost 3,000 to 4,000 killed and over 300 tanks in eleven days."

To-day's Soviet communiqué stated: "In Stalingrad Soviet guards drove the Germans out of several factory buildings. North-east of Tuapse Soviet troops took a height by storm, killing 130 Germans.

"On all other fronts, from Murmansk to Voronezh, the Germans are hastily digging themselves in for the winter, constantly harried by Red Army patrols and raiding parties.

SOVIET COMMUNIQUE

MOSCOW, Sunday. — To-night's communiqué states: — "During November 8 our troops fought the enemy in the area of Stalingrad, north-east of Tuapse, and south-east of Nalchik. During the week ending November 7, 158 enemy aircraft were destroyed on the ground and by A.-A. fire. Our losses during the same period were 63. Our warships in the Baltic Sea sank two German transports, totalling 12,000 tons.

"In the area of Stalingrad our troops were repelling the attacks of small enemy groups and improving their defensive fortifications.

"South-east of Nalchik active operations continue, during which our units, in two days' fighting, killed 1,700 enemy officers and men.

"North-east of Tuapse the Germans launched several counter-attacks, which were repulsed with heavy losses to them."—(Reuter.)

119 DEAD IN FIRE

CALCUTTA, Sunday.—One hundred and nineteen people were killed and 100 injured in a fire in a temporary structure erected in connection with a Hindu festival this afternoon. It is believed to be the biggest fire in Calcutta in recent times, as far as casualties are concerned.—(Reuter.)

HUGE LANDINGS AT MANY PORTS

U.S.-FRENCH RELATIONS BROKEN

AN American army, supported by British, and numbering 140,000 men, under the command of General Eisenhower, has landed in French North Africa. The landings were effected at many places hundreds of miles apart, and last night among places preparing for a state of siege were Oran, Algiers, Casablanca, Safi, Rabat and Bouynika.

The landing was the longest over-water military operation ever attempted, with hundreds of ships in great convoys coming thousands of miles under the protection of British and American sea and air might.

Immediately after the landing millions of leaflets signed by President Roosevelt were dropped in the North African towns from U.S. 'planes. The leaflets said that the purpose of the landings was to free French territory from the threat of occupation by the Axis, and appealed for French co-operation "in the execution of this great purpose." Later a statement was issued from the British Foreign Office subscribing to the policy and ideals set out by President Roosevelt.

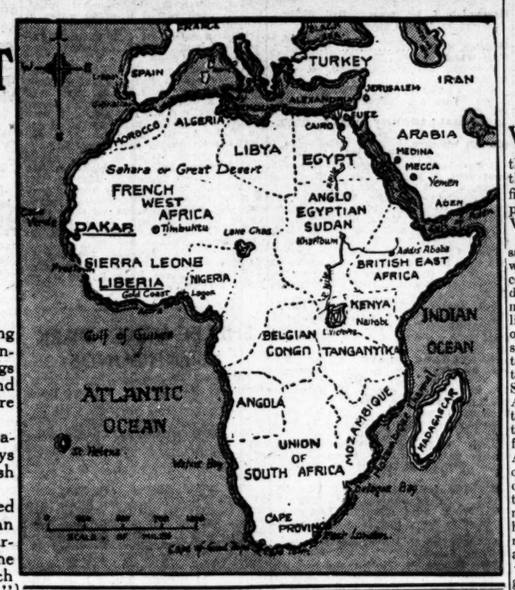

FRENCH REPORT

According to Vichy Radio, two corvettes, British or American, were sunk in an attack on Oran and prisoners taken, and landings were effected by American troops and British vessels at Algiers, where resistance was said to be continuing.

A Vichy despatch to Berne stated that units of the French Fleet went into action at Oran, and German Radio said that the French Fleet left Toulon yesterday afternoon to fight British naval units.

Last night Reuter reported that the French Cabinet had decided that, in carrying the war to North Africa, the U.S. Government had de facto broken relations with France, and a New York message stated that, according to reports, M. Laval had handed to Mr. Pinkner Puck, U.S. Chargé d'Affaires in Vichy, a formal notification of the breaking off of relations between the two countries. A naval battle was also said to be in progress between French and British fleets off Casablanca.

This morning Vichy Radio announced that a suspension of hostilities at Algiers had been arranged between the French and Americans.

AMERICANS HOLD ALGIERS

LONDON, Sunday.—An Algier despatch, broadcast by Vichy radio said:—"A violent engagement took place at 10.30 this morning off Algiers between French forces and an American destroyer, which had forced its way into the port. The destroyer had landed troops that had attacked the seaplane base and an electric power station. After being fired on, the destroyer re-embarked the landing force and again put to sea, exchanging shots with the batteries and the pinnace.

The despatch claimed that the destroyer was hit several times, but, though listing badly, succeeded in getting away under a smoke screen. Several of its shells struck the town and the Admiralty, without doing any serious damage or causing any casualties.—(Reuter.)

140,000 TROOPS

The radio said that Allied forces landing in North Africa are estimated to number 140,000 men. Resistance was said to be continuing at landing points near Algiers. Buildings which were occupied by de Gaulle sympathisers during the morning were retaken by the authorities.

The radio stated later that American troops had succeeded in infiltrating at some points in the city of Algiers, and the city itself was being attacked. The message added:—"Several of these attacks were repulsed, especially in the port of Algiers and at the Admiralty. At other points the attackers are reported to have succeeded in gaining a foothold. The situation is serious. It appears that massive landings are in preparation. A de Gaullist movement which has broken out in Morocco is reported to have failed."

A still later message from Algiers said:—"This morning troops which had been landed from a destroyer attacked and held the Admiralty, but were afterwards counter-attacked and taken prisoner.

TOWNS OCCUPIED

"Arzeu has been largely occupied and the situation is confused. West of Oran there was a landing near Segalo and Bousfer has been occupied. An important landing has been made at Safi, in Morocco. A big attack is reported on Fedhala and a commando raid at Media."—(Reuter.)

Rabat radio reported:—"A local revolt broke out last night in Morocco under the pretext that the Americans were on the point of making a general landing in North Africa. The revolt was totally quelled by 8.30 a.m. to-day without bloodshed. The ringleaders have been arrested. Several American and British forces cruising off the Moroccan coast made landing attempts. All the enemy attacks were repulsed. A state of siege has been proclaimed. General Nogues has taken over the command of the defence."

INSURRECTION, TOO

An official communiqué broadcast by Vichy radio last night said:—"An insurrectionary movement has been suppressed at Casablanca. General Bethouard, who had taken part in the rising, was made prisoner. Casablanca has been severely attacked by dive bombers. Except for one battalion all the troops are faithful to Marshal Pétain."—(Reuter.)

VICHY, Sunday Night.—Allied troops in considerable numbers have been landed at Safi, in Morocco, where fighting is now in progress, states a telegram from General Nogues to the French Foreign Minister. The report states:—

"The enemy has succeeded in landing considerable forces at Safi, where fighting is going on inside the town and on the beach at Mehedia. Enemy transports are off the coast at these points. A landing is in progress at Bouznika, 25 miles from Casablanca. Strong sea and air attacks on the port of Casablanca have been repelled. Air attacks have been made on the airfields at Rabat and Sale. A few losses were suffered. The troops are under control and the population is calm."

Vichy Radio later said that reports from Morocco admit that the Americans hold Safi and a large beachhead at Mehedia. A large number of troops appeared to be landing at both places.

Madrid Radio said that American troops had been prevented from landing at Casablanca. Three of the covering warships were stated to have been damaged.—(Reuter.)

LONDON, Sunday Night.—New York Radio said to-night:—"U.S. forces have occupied Arzeu and Bousfer, in the Oran region, Algiers, and the Moroccan town of Safi, 132 miles south of Casablanca."

APPEAL TO FRENCH

As the transports approached the appointed places instructions from General Eisenhower were broadcast to the inhabitants. "We count on your friendship and ask for your co-operation," the radio said, announcing that no offensive action would be taken against defence posts which remained passive and displayed stipulated signals. All ships of the Navy and merchant fleets were told to stay put and not to scuttle, coastal defence units warned not to man batteries or other installations, and units of the French Air Force told not to take off and to leave their 'planes in their normal places. "We shall not be the ones to fire first," it added. Meanwhile, news of the American intention was broadcast in a message from President Roosevelt, and this message in pamphlet form, and another from General Eisenhower, were dropped by the 'planes.

A joint radio appeal by America and Britain asking the people of Metropolitan France to remain calm, but on the alert, stated: "We enter to-day into the offensive phase of the war of liberation . . . . nevertheless, the moment has not yet come to appeal to the French nation as a whole. . . . The hour of national uprising has not sounded. We have already promised you that we will warn you when this hour shall have come. To-day that moment is closer."—(Reuter.)

SPAIN REASSURED

The British Ambassadors at Madrid and Lisbon have been instructed to inform the Spanish and Portuguese Governments that the British Government are at one with the United States Government regarding the conduct and object of the landing. Sir S. Hoare has been instructed to convey to the Spanish Government a solemn assurance that the operations in no way threaten Spanish territory, metropolitan or overseas.

The Portuguese Government are being assured that it is the firm intention of the British Government that neither Portugal nor any of her overseas territories should be involved in hostilities.—(Reuter.)

HERR HITLER'S VIEW

Herr Hitler, referring to North Africa in a speech yesterday, said: "If a blow does not knock a man down it only makes him stronger. Wherever the fronts be, Germany will always hit back and go over to the attack. When to-day Roosevelt launches an attack against North Africa under the pretext of protecting it against Germany and Italy, we need not waste words about the lies of this old scoundrel. The decisive last word will certainly not be spoken by Herr Roosevelt. You may be sure of that. We shall prepare all counter-blows, as always, thoroughly, and they will come, as always, in due time. When the British first landed in Boulogne they were confident. Six months later their dreams had come to an end. It came differently from what they thought, and it will come differently again. You may have full confidence in the German leadership and the German Army. They will do all there is to do."

REPLY TO U.S.

An answer by Marshal Pétain to President Roosevelt was broadcast by Vichy Radio yesterday. The Marshal said: "I have learned to-night with sorrow and amazement of the aggression of your troops against North Africa. I have read your message. You have invoked a pretext which nothing can justify. You ascribe to your enemies an intention which has never been translated into action. We have always declared that we would defend our empire if it were attacked. You also knew that we would defend it against any aggressor, whoever he might be. You knew that I would keep my word. In our misfortune I saved our empire by asking for an armistice, and it is you who, acting in the name of a State to which we are linked by so many memories and ties, are taking such a bitter decision. France and her honour are at stake. We are being attacked. We shall defend ourselves. That is the order which I am giving."—(Reuter.)

NAVAL BATTLE

VICHY, Sunday.—A naval battle is now raging off the coast of Morocco, at Casablanca, the French Information Office announced to-night. "Algiers is encircled by Allied forces from the east and west. Fighting is going on between Arzeu and Oran. Heavy fighting is also going on in Morocco. French troops are trying to reduce the bridge-heads at Safi and Fedala.

Later American forces were stated to be surrounding the Governor's Palace, about a mile and a half from the centre of Algiers.

AN ARMISTICE

VICHY, Sunday Night — Vichy radio gave this message from Algiers to-night:—"A suspension of hostilities at Algiers was signed with Admiral Darlan's authorisation, between the French Commander-in-Chief of North Africa and the Commander of the American troops. The suspension of hostilities only affects the forces occupying Algiers."—(Reuter.)

The French troops in Algiers area are to be confined to barracks, but will retain their arms, Vichy News Agency announced.—(Reuter.)

Order in the City of Algiers will be maintained by American troops from 10 p.m. to-day.

A message from Rabat to-night says that the American landing forces have been contained by the French troops, notably at Safi, Fedhala and Bouznika.—(Reuter.)

An Algiers message to the Vichy News Agency adds that late this afternoon an American naval squadron sailed into the Bay of Algiers. It consisted of one 35,000-ton battleship, one cruiser and two destroyers. It opened fire and shelled for some time the coastal battery at Cape Matifou, some 17 miles east of Algiers, and the battery known as Des Anglais. Fort Duperre, to the west of Algiers, was forced to surrender about 5 o'clock after the small garrison had suffered severe losses.—(Reuter.)

AIRFIELDS TAKEN

LONDON, Sunday. — A communiqué from Allied Headquarters in North Africa to-night said that American combat teams swept ashore on the beaches near Algiers and Oran, capturing three airfields against confused resistance, and penetrating swiftly into the interior from several beachheads. Heavy fighting was encountered from French naval units and shore batteries at two ports, but were being dealt with by British and American naval forces, under the supreme command of Sir Andrew Cunningham. Assault forces at Algiers captured the Maison Blanche and Bleda airfields, and American soldiers, at Oran, took Tarafoui field. La Senia airfield, at Oran, was still in French hands.—(Reuter.)

The communiqué continues: "The forces in French North Africa are advancing rapidly and other landings continue. Our naval forces are in control and suffered no losses, except for two small ships which entered Oran Harbour. During yesterday one of our transports was torpedoed and disabled.

"Landings by United States forces on the Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts of French North Africa are proceeding according to plan. Several important airfields have been occupied by the Army Air Force and the R.A.F.

ALLIED SHIPS SUNK

"The Western Atlantic Task Force encountered heavy opposition, particularly from light naval forces. At Algiers light French naval units sallied out of the harbour, but were driven back by Allied warships. The coastal defences at Algiers sank two Allied vessels in the harbour, but the big guns of some of the mightiest warships afloat poured fire into the coast batteries. The opposition in the harbours was more than being made up for by the land advances of the American troops."—(Reuter.)

£400 ROBBERY IN DUBLIN

Before the noise of the shattering across the pavement of the plate-glass window of a pawnbroker's shop had had time to alarm the sleeping residents of a South Dublin street, in the dark hour before the dawn on Saturday morning, thieves were sweeping the window clear of almost £400 worth of miscellaneous watches and jewellery.

The shop was that of Mr. John F. Gibson at 22 South Richmond street. Its window is protected by a roller shutter, the bolt of which was missing.

FRENCH BATTLESHIP HIT

Berlin Radio said last night that the new 35,000-ton French battleship Jean Bart and four French submarines were hit by dive bombers off French Morocco, and two Allied destroyers were sunk.—(Reuter.)

U.S. CONSULS

Paris Radio said last night:—"State Secretary de Brinon announced that M. Laval has ordered the Governor-General of French West Africa, General Nogues, Resident General in Morocco; Admiral Esteva, Resident General in Tunis, and Admiral Darlan to see that American Consuls are put where they can do no harm."—(Reuter.)

GENOA'S HEAVIEST RAID

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE

BRITISH bombers on Saturday night—the second night in succession—attacked Genoa in a raid, described officially as its "heaviest raid of the war."

The British communiqué stated that the raid was on a heavier scale than that of the night before. It added: "The weather over the target was good, and extensive fires were seen. Four of our bombers and a fighter on intruder patrol over Northern France are missing."

"A strong force, consisting almost entirely of Stirlings, Halifaxes and Lancasters, dealt another crushing blow at the port, which the Axis must inevitably use as a base from which to send reinforcements overseas," said the Air Ministry News Service. "The weather over the target was again highly favourable for attack, and all crews report that great destruction must have been done in the port. Once into Italy, the weather was cloudless and clear. Genoa was illuminated by flares, and easily identified by the coast-line and the shape of the docks. At the very beginning of the attack there was a good deal more 'flak' than on the night before, but as soon as the bombing became heavy the gunners ceased to fire. In a short time there were fires all over the port, and along the water front high-explosive bombs, including many four-thousand pounders, were bursting among the flames with devastating effect."

BOMBS ON FRANCE

A British Air Ministry and Headquarters, European Theatre of Operations, United States Army, communiqué last night stated that "United States Flying Fortress bombers, B 17s, escorted by Allied fighters, bombed two targets in occupied France during daylight yesterday. One formation attacked the Fives-Lille steel and locomotive works at Lille, while another bombed the enemy airfield at Abbeville. Good results were observed at Lille, where hits were seen on the works and on the adjacent marshalling yards. At Abbeville heavy cloud made the observation of results difficult. Strong fighter opposition was encountered over both targets, and fighting continued until the bombers were re-crossing the Channel. In these combats a number of enemy fighters were destroyed by the Fortresses. One Fortress and six escorting fighters are missing."

IRISH NATIONAL TEACHERS

In view of the rising cost of living, the Irish National Teachers Organisation held a public meeting at 36 Parnell square on Saturday to pass a resolution demanding the immediate and substantial increase in their salaries.

Mr. W. Norton, T.D., said that since the war the cost of living had risen by 40 per cent., and if the national teachers received 8s. in the £ they would not be any better off than they were in 1939.

Mr. H. O'Connor, Belfast, Vice-president, I.N.T.O., seconding the resolution, said that in the six counties the teachers had been granted a bonus as from July last, amounting to £46 per annum for men and £36 per annum for women for those with salaries under £262 10s., and £35 for men and £28 for women for those with salaries above that figure.

Mr. T. Frisby (Kilkenny) said almost half the general body of teachers were working for less than £4 a week; 3,000 of these were working for less than £3 a week, and more than 2,000 were receiving between 35s. and 48s. a week.

GIBRALTAR BOMBED

LONDON, Sunday — Paris radio stated to-day:—"At dawn this morning air formations flew over and attacked Gibraltar. All the British A.A. batteries and ships in the roadstead opened fire."—(Reuter.)

"The frontier between Gibraltar and Spain has been completely closed for the last 24 hours, German News Agency said last night.—(Reuter.)

In future an inspector of the Department of Industry and Commerce may enter on any premises or land and search any refuse bin, box or other container, and inspect any waste paper found by him.

PRESERVATION OF IRISH FREEDOM

MR. DE VALERA'S WARNING

WE wish ill to nobody; we want nothing from anybody but that for which we have fought in the past—our freedom. This definition of Eire's international position was reiterated by Mr. de Valera at Longford yesterday.

As long as the war went on, he said, the danger to this country would increase, and the thing that counted most in preserving our freedom and our peace were the determination of every man to give his life for them, and the maintenance of the unity that they had at present. Mr. de Valera was speaking to members of the Regular Army, the Local Defence Force, the Local Security Force, the Red Cross and A.R.P. Services after a parade through the town. He appealed to the young men just coming of age—from 18 to 20—to join the Regular Army, and to every person in the country to be as determined individually as the nation was as a whole to maintain their freedom, no matter against whom. The Army had shown during their recent manœuvres that they were as fit and capable as any army in the world, and their equipment was getting better every day. The aim was to see that the Army would be as well equipped and trained as any equal body of men in the world. To achieve that aim they must use every available moment of their time that was left to them. There was no conscription here, and, therefore, they could not expect to have in the regular defence forces all the young men of the country. They had quite a number, but they had not enough, and it seemed to him that it should be possible to considerably augment these forces.

"STAND TOGETHER"

"I sometimes think," he said, "that we hardly realise how we have been favoured by Providence in this country when you think of the millions that have died on the Continent of Europe and the multitudes driven from their homes." The only thing that would help them here under Providence was the determination on the part of every man in this country that, if they were invaded, no matter by whom, the invader would be attacked immediately and resisted to death. Nothing else could save them. They had declared their neutrality, supported by every class in the community, and it would be a serious matter, indeed, for anybody now to try to disrupt that unity. Unity was one of the things that had helped to save them. They must at all costs preserve it, and, however they might differ, they must, each of them, be determined that they would stand together as they had done in the past two and a half years.

"We want to preserve the freedom we have got. We wish well to every nation, but we need all our men to defend ourselves." As long as this war continued there would be danger, and the more critical the phases of the war became the greater was the danger. There should be no reason for complacency.

General Sean MacEoin said that he agreed with the Taoiseach on the defence policy of this country. The responsibility was on them all—the Taoiseach and the Government, the Opposition and everybody else—to hold fast to what they had won.

The Rev. J. Earley, Adm., presided, and among those on the platform were Mr. O. Traynor, Minister for Defence; Mr. E. Childers, T.D.; Mr. J. Victory, T.D.; Lieut.-General D. McKenna, Chief of Staff; Major-General Hugo McNeill, G.O.C., Second Division; Colonel F. McCorley, Colonel A. Lawlor, Colonel N. McNeill, and the Earl of Granard.

REPUBLICAN WINS AT BELFAST

WILL NOT TAKE SEAT

The result of the Falls (Belfast) by-election, which was announced on Saturday, was as follows:—

Mr. E. Donnelly (Republican) 4,595
Dr. G. McGouran (Nationalist) 1,971
Mr. J. Glass (Labour) 1,821

Mr. E. Donnelly, who thus secured the seat in the Northern House of Commons left vacant by the death of the Nationalist member, Mr. Richard Byrne, by a majority of 2,624 votes, stated that he would not take his seat in Stormont, and would strive "to take whatever Nationalists are there away from that assembly."

LANGUAGE IN DANGER

EDUCATIONAL DEFECTS

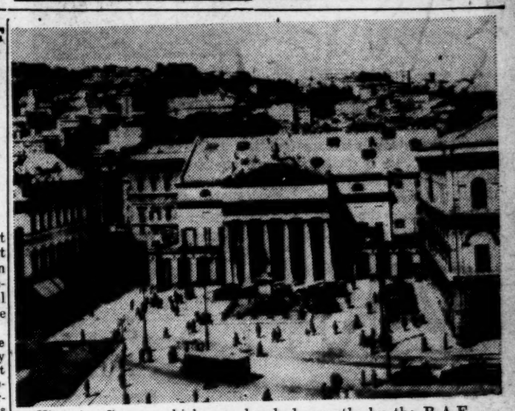

The state of education in Eire to-day was deplored by Mrs. M. Buckley, President, at the Sinn Fein Ard-Fheis in Dublin last night. She said that boys and girls leaving secondary schools with a good working knowledge of the Irish language, lost it when they entered the Universities. Children of poor parents who could only hope for a primary education reached the second standard without knowing the alphabet. When children joyfully left school at the age of 14 they knew neither English nor Irish. Those whose parents, though poor, had more ambitions for their children were often shocked to find that when they applied for admission to the technical school they were found to be practically illiterate.

Dealing with the food problem, Mrs. Buckley said that they were actually breeding a race of paupers, because the children growing up to-day saw nothing about them but free food vouchers, free meals, free this and free that. The country would reap a bitter harvest in the next generation from this Government's sowing.

The followiug were elected for the coming year:—President, Mrs. Margaret Buckley; Vice-Presidents, Seumas Mitchell, Seumas O'Neill: Hon. Treasurers, P. de Paor, C. ni Giollanriogh; Hon. Secretaries, S. O Ruiseal, D. O Laoghaire.

HOT SCHOOL-MEALS

The Corporation School Meals Committee's plan for the distribution of hot meals to Dublin children is virtually completed, and it is hoped, an Irish Times reporter was informed yesterday, that it will be ready for next Friday's meeting of the Committee. The Rev. T. O'Donnell, Adm., City Quay, is the newly-appointed Chairman of the Committee. Meanwhile the Committee has adopted a resolution requesting that bacteriological tests shall be applied to samples of the milk which is being supplied to the schools.

"THERE CAN BE NO COMPROMISE"

HERR HITLER HINTS OF NEW WEAPONS

"DURING the world war 2,000,000 German soldiers were killed in action, including two members of Parliament. In the present struggle our army has lost 350,000 dead, and among them are thirty-nine members of the National-Socialist Parliament. We know what would be in store for us if the other side won, and because of that there can be no compromise. No more peace offers will come from us." This was a statement by Herr Hitler.

Speaking last night in the Lœwenbrau beer cellar in Munich, on the anniversary of the abortive beer cellar putsch of 1923, he said: "We could have had victory in 1918, but the German people did not deserve it. There will be no repetition of 1918. Why are we fighting so far from home to-day? To keep the war from our home country and spare it the sufferings which it would otherwise undergo. The enemy is making a great mistake if he thinks he can repeat the history of the last war. Mr. Eden says that the English have experience in governing. It would be truer to say experience in plundering. If Roosevelt says that Germany must be rescued by American methods, I reply: 'You cannot help your own people. You plunged them into war because you saw no other way out.'

"PESSIMISM"

"Churchill has been saying that I have lately been making pessimistic speeches. Well, I really don't know. If I hit a man hard right and left and he then turns round and says I make whining speeches—well, what can a man do?

"If Poland had accepted our offer we should have paid less attention to our army, and then one day the storm would have broken from the East, and the fighting would have come right to the outskirts of Berlin. At that time I was sorry my offer was turned down. To-day I am glad.

"Stalin thought we would attack in the central sector, but our aims were directed against one particular town. It was this special town that I wanted. Please do not believe I wanted it because it is called after Stalin. I wanted it because of its importance as a junction. We stopped the traffic of 30,000,000 tons of fuel and 9,000,000 tons of petrol. That is why we took Stalingrad. That is why we have got it now except for some very small parts. If anybody asks why we do not take immediately the remaining strong points held by the enemy, I reply: Because they are not worth a second Verdun. I can assure you that there are no more vessels steaming up the Volga—that is what really matters.

"People say why are we taking so long over Stalingrad? We are taking so long because we do not want mass murder. Enough blood is flowing as it is. If the enemy wanted to attack, I for one would not wish to stop him, for defence is always cheaper. He would bleed to death. Anyway we can turn every thought, will be a prayer for round and tell the enemy that the our Germany."—(Reuter.)

Russians are still not at the Pyrenees and we are.

"The enemy accuses us of mistakes. Was it a mistake to occupy the Ukraine, to seize the iron ores, the oil, the wheatfields? In North Africa the enemy has moved forward and the enemy has moved back, but what matters in this war is the final result, and that you can leave to us. The Americans have started boasting about having produced a new submarine, the best and fastest in the world. You need not worry. We are not asleep, nor are our constructors.

"Already in this war we have sunk over 24,000,000 tons of enemy shipping, 12,000,000 tons more than in the last war. We have far more submarines than we had in the last war and we are building more and more."

Having referred to the U.S. landing in North Africa, he said: "I have full confidence that I have behind me the German home front and the whole of the National-Socialist Party as a swarm of brotherhood. What makes the present different from the past is that once there was a Kaiser, but no people behind him; whereas behind me there is the greatest organisation the world has ever seen. And the man at the head of it is not a man to go abroad if things go wrong. He is a man who has always known nothing but fighting, who has always had only one principle: to hit, to hit and to hit again. To-day every German knows that we are engaged in a life-and-death struggle. To-day every German must believe in me. He must become a fanatic.

BRITISH RAIDS

"Do you think I don't eat my heart out when I think of the British air attacks on Germany. Before I attacked Warsaw, I five times asked them to capitulate, and only then did I do what is allowed by the rules of war. It is just the same to-day. I don't forget. I take good note of all. They will all find out in Britain that the German inventive spirit has not been idle and they will get an answer which will take their breath away. I have already said that if I do not make a long speech that does not mean I have lost my voice. Why should I talk? To-day the front is talking and that is the only thing that matters. Think only that this war will decide whether Germany shall live or die, and if you realise this, your every deed, your every thought, will be a prayer for

St. Martin's Good Form

ST. MARTIN put up a fine performance at Leopardstown on Saturday when winning the Clifden Steeplechase under an impost of 12st. 7lb. Approaching the last fence it looked as if Prince Blackthorn had taken his measure, but, showing that extra bit of finishing speed which has characterised his previous runnings, St. Martin quickly got the better of Captain de Burgh's horse and then held off a late challenge from Housewarmer. Smerwick's Nephew fell at the last fence, but his rider, Mr. M. N. Walker, escaped with nothing worse than a shaking. About the easiest win of the afternoon was that of Scottish Welcome in the Mallaranny Plate. Teasel, the favourite for this, slipped up, and, breaking a leg, was destroyed.

Mr. John Farrell had a well-deserved turn of luck when he won the Clonkeen Maiden Hurdle Race with the three years old Mr. Tiger. Fergus O'Farrell beat a big field in the Kylemore Hurdle in easy style, and then came the rather fortunate success of Sir Stafford King Harman's Crackerjack in the Maiden two years' old race. It was only when the horse was on his way to the post that it was discovered that he was carrying 8st. 11lb. instead of 9st; his jockey, T. P. Burns, without losing much time, weighed out again and galloped his horse to the starting-post in time to line up with the others and go on to gain a length victory over Obligato.

The Autumn Plate was won by Neartic and the Leenane Plate by Ins An Mala, who survived an objection for crossing lodged by the rider of the second horse, The Little Wench. Details:—

HOCKEY LEADERS' FIRST DEFEAT

Portrane's hundred per cent. record in the Senior League came to an end on Saturday, when Pembroke Wanderers travelled out to Donabate and registered a 2-1 victory. A hard struggle all the way was decided in the last five minutes. Hannon, promoted from the second XI. at centre-forward, giving Wanderers victory. Caprani opened the scoring for Portrane shortly after the start, and Webster had got the equaliser early in the second half. The table is now very interesting, with Portrane one point in front of St. James's Gate, Wanderers and Railway Union.

That Railway will make a bid for the championship was shown by their 4-2 win over Dublin University at Park avenue. A sound defence, excellent halves, and a dangerous right wing combination in Leopold and K. Tanham, gave Railway an advantage, for the Trinity defence on the left side of the field was outplayed. The experiment of trying Stevenson at inside-left failed, though Lush played a sound game at full-back. D. McGilligan scored for Trinity in each half, and Power (2) in the first half. Lonergan and Leopold got Railway's goals.

After shaping quite well in the first half, Three Rock Rovers faded out subsequently against Y.M.C.A., and, with Russell absent from the attack, Rovers did not really shape like getting a goal. Sanderson, Hussey and Walker scored for Y.M.C.A., the latter proving a distinct success on his first appearance.

Looking well beaten up to the middle of the second half, Corinthians made a plucky recovery against St. James's Gate at Crumlin, and six goals were shared. Murphy netted twice for the Gate in the first half, and Darlington put them three up in the second half. Cole, Franklin and Sterling got three good goals for Corinthians. Results:—

Pembroke Wanderers 2, Portrane 1; Railway Union 4, Dublin University 2; Y.M.C.A. 3, Three Rock Rovers 0; St. James's Gate 3, Corinthians 3.

Shock for Champions

LIMERICK ...... 1 CORK 0

PLAYING with only ten men for 35 minutes of the opening half, Limerick gave Cork United, League and Shield champions, a rude shock at Limerick yesterday. There was a thrill a minute in the game, which was played at a rattling pace throughout, but there was no luck about Limerick's win. They were steadier in defence, and in attack showed much more dash than their opponents.

In the first minute McAleer struck the upright with Foley beaten, and in further Limerick attacks Jenkins, O'Neill, and Healy tested Foley with fierce drives. McAleer retired injured, and Limerick were forced on the defensive. Their defence held steady, however, and Harrington dealt safely with the few shots which came his way. Just before half-time Jenkins, with a brilliant effort, scored the all-important goal. Excitement was intense during the second half, both sides attacking in turn. In an exciting last-minute rally, Cork crowded the Limerick goal, and Madden, who had switched to centre-forward, was presented with a glorious scoring opportunity, but Harrington made a daring dive at his feet.

SOUND DEFENCES

BRIDEVILLE ... 0 DUNDALK ... 0

At Harold's Cross yesterday, Brideville and Dundalk played a dull and scoreless draw. Neither set of forwards showed much constructive ability, and sound defences dealt easily with all attempts to score. Dundalk tried out a new centre-forward, Agnew, who did not impress either as leader of the attack or, in the second half, at outside-left.

Smyth, Brideville, was the outstanding forward on the field, and only a brilliant save by Matier deprived him of scoring with a powerful snap shot. Apart from the fine goalkeeping on both sides, the only feature of the match was a disallowed Dundalk score in the first half.

BRAY OUTPLAYED

BRAY .... 1 DRUMCONDRA 4

Without being extended, Drumcondra beat Bray Unknowns by 4-1 in their opening League match at Bray yesterday. The winners were without Ward (sick), for whom O'Rourke was a capable deputy. Clarke came on in the defence, where he, Byrne and Barnes had an easy time. The halves, O'Brien, McGlynn and O'Mara, laid the foundation for Drumcondra's win, and the forwards, especially O'Rourke, McNamara and Dyer, did their share.

Bray were very weak at left full-back, where Kelly was quite unable to cope with the Drumcondra right wing.

In the first half, O'Rourke and McNamara scored, and Murphy scored for Bray. Shortly after the resumption, but almost at once, Mulville replied for Drumcondra, whose fourth goal was scored by McNamara.

NO GOALS

JAMES'S GATE 0 SHELBOURNE 0

A scoreless draw was the outcome of the match between Shelbourne and St. James's Gate at Crumlin yesterday, and nobody could cavil at the result. It was a game in which the respective defences were on top. Noonan, the home team's right full, was outstanding, and showed a return to his old-time form. He was ably supported by O'Reilly. Rogers and Laing, a former Boys' Brigade player, who hails from the North, showed up to advantage. Murtagh, in goal, played his usual sound game, and frustrated the Shelbourne marksmen time and again. Kennedy, on the right-wing, was probably the best Shelbourne forward, while Fallon and Walsh among the backs, were tireless and skilful defenders.

DRAW AT DALYMOUNT

BOHEMIANS...... 1 SHAMROCK R. 1

Bohemians were rather fortunate to escape defeat at Dalymount Park on Saturday, as Shamrock Rovers had them on the defensive during the second half. Rovers were weak where they expected to shine. Crowe, their ex-Bohemian centre-forward, was held by Byrne, who was a stalwart in Bohemians' defence. Landers, in goal, and Horlacher, who changed places with Glennon, were sound in defence for Bohemians, but the forwards were patchy.

Rovers' front line was better balanced and much more dangerous. Comerford was their main scoring hope, but did not enjoy the best of luck. Gregg had a glorious chance to win the match in the last minute, but sent wide when confronted with Landers.

Both goals came in the first half, McGrane scoring for Bohemians after a minute's play, and Comerford for Rovers a quarter of an hour later.

North Regional League—Belfast Celtic 4, Glentoran 3; Linfield 6, Derry City 2; Distillery 4, Cliftonville 0.

Connaught Backs Had No Striking Power

LEINSTER ..... 14 CONNAUGHT ... 0

ALTHOUGH, as the result of the quick-breaking and skirmishing tactics of the Connaught forwards, a good deal of the play was in Leinster territory, there was never much doubt about the result of the match at Donnybrook, and the score was a goal and three tries to nothing in Leinster's favour.

The Connaught forwards did not sustain the pace they set at the start, but outside the scrums they were always thinking and acting a shade quicker than the opposing set, giving their backs valuable cover and making some sorties which threatened to produce something tangible; but the backs had absolutely no striking power. They also were glaringly weak in defence at stand-off—a position which changed hands three times during the game.

The Leinster forwards, apart from getting more of the ball in the scrums and a few rushes, generally led by K. O'Brien, did not accomplish very much. The combined back play was disappointing, with the result that K. O'Flanagan only got two or three passes and D. Flanagan hardly one which gave him a chance.

Though inclined to try too much on his own, K. Quinn was a big success individually at stand-off, taking all sorts of passes with ease and employing his speed and swerve with great effect. J. Thompson also did well at scrum-half, but G. J. Quinn rather faded out of the picture in the second half, and J. Byrne frequently ran into trouble.

C. Murphy was as quick and as clever as ever at full-back.

M. McLaverty showed promise when playing at centre for the losers and was the only back to get any distance. J. Corcoran, though kicking short, was sound at full-back. The forwards were a level lot and worked very hard all through. About the best of them were R. Boland, P. Sweeney, O. Goodbody and P. Joyce.

K. Quinn, with a swerve and "dummy" at top speed went clean through to score Leinster's first try, and he was mainly responsible for the opening which gave K. O'Flanagan a straight run in from halfway to score the second. Another break through by K. Quinn, followed by a short kick, presented J. Guiney with the third try which came early in the second half, D. Flanagan converting; and right on time J. Thompson, all on his own, got the fourth try.

PLAYERS INJURED

DUBLIN U. ...... 6 WANDERERS 5

Dublin University were a trifle lucky to win at Lansdowne road by two tries to a goal as Wanderers lost the services of their centre threequarter, Motyer, in the first few minutes of the game, and Fox, their scrum half, had to be carried off a minute or two after the second half had opened. Shortly afterwards Solomons had a face injury and was off for some time. In the circumstances Wanderers did well to lead at half-time by five points, Robertson converting a try scored by T. R. Horan after thirty minutes. Graves was in grand form, hooking the ball nine times out of ten, but the Trinity pack broke so quickly and were so lively in the loose that the home backs could never get going properly. Trinity's first score came when Harrison was up to take a pass from MacIntyre and touch down for a capital try, which O'Connor failed to convert. In the last few minutes Sayers got the second try.

MORAN IN FORM

CLONTARF ..... 17 BLACKROCK ... 8

Clontarf had little difficulty in beating Blackrock College at Castle avenue by a goal, three tries and a penalty goal (17 points) to a goal and a try (8 points). The game was even more one-sided than the score suggests, and after the first twenty minutes Clontarf had established a superiority which they maintained throughout the subsequent play.

F. G. Moran had a "day out," for he used his speed to marked advantage and crossed the 'Rock line on four occasions, but only one of his tries was converted by M. B. Williams, who also landed a penalty goal. Blackrock's display was a most disappointing one, and their only back to shine was Ferris, who got a try and converted, while Morrison got the visitors' other score.

MONKSTOWN'S FIRST

MONKSTOWN .. 6 ST. MARY'S 3

Monkstown gained their first victory of the season when, at Sydney Parade, they defeated St. Mary's College by a penalty goal and a try to a try. Monkstown deserved their win, for their forwards combined better than those of St. Mary's, who were not by any means as effective as usual.

After an even first half, in which Sugars scored an unconverted try for Monkstown, the home team gave St. Mary's little scope in the opening stages of the second period. Campbell kicked a penalty goal from one of the numerous frees which marked the game. In the concluding stages St. Mary's staged a strong attack and B. O'Sullivan crossed for a try, which Norton just failed to convert.

U.C.D. WIN

U.C.D. .... 6 Curragh......... 0

At the Curragh, U.C.D. defeated the home fifteen by 2 tries to nil, after a vigorous and hard-fought game. The losers, well served by a spirited and hard-working pack, had as much of the game as their opponents, but the latter's backs were the more constructive. Dillon, Feddes, Lyons and McElhinny being frequently prominent in attack. Curragh's most dangerous moves were fierce forward rushes, Russell, McGarry, Coffey and H. W. Byrne being well to the fore throughout. Dillon and Feddes scored for U.C.D.

BELVEDERE BEATEN

OLD WESLEY 14 OLD BELVEDERE 7

Old Wesley's backs played care-free Rugby in defeating Old Belvedere, at Jones's road, by 2 dropped goals and 2 tries to 1 dropped goal and 1 try. Belvedere had only D. Thorpe and N. McNelis of the regular backs on duty, with F. Quinn making his first appearance of the season at out-half, and, though this trio worked hard, the substitutes were no match for the thrustful Wesley backs, of whom A. Carry, J. McConnell and N. McConnell were most prominent. Quinn retired shortly after half-time, with Wesley leading 7-4, but the Belvedere forwards made a great effort and took complete control for a spell. Quinn dropped a goal early on for Belvedere, but a similar score by Carry and a try by N. McConnell left Wesley leading at half-time. D. Crean crossed for Belvedere midway through the second half, but a brilliant try by N. McConnell restored Wesley's lead, and Carry added another dropped goal shortly before the end.

CAGNEY'S BIG PART

LANSDOWNE... 21 COLLEGIANS... 9

For the second Saturday in succession Lansdowne were in Belfast, and this time won easily over Collegians by 3 goals, 2 tries to 3 tries. Collegians' forwards put up a good fight, but once the ball was in the open Lansdowne were easily masters and by half-time had the game well in hand. Twelve of the points were obtained by Cagney, who scored two tries, and converted both, as well as converting a try by O'Flanagan. McPhillips and Flood scored the other tries. Glasgow, Donaldson and Johnston got Collegians' scores.

ULSTER BEAT ARMY

ULSTER .... 10 ARMY 8

Ulster beat the Army in Northern Ireland by a dropped goal and 2 tries to a goal and a try, at Ravenhill. The Army forwards scrummaged better, but the backs made little use of the ball, and Ulster, whose forwards were livelier in the loose, deserved to win. Monteith dropped a goal after 15 minutes, and Harrison scored before the interval. Eight minutes after resuming Higson finished off a grand back movement with a try at the posts, but Higgins failed to convert. Army lasted the better, and Robbins scored a try, while Saunders Jones added a second, Kelly converting one.

PALMERSTON AGAIN

PALMERSTON ... 8 BECTIVE R. ... 3

Palmerston beat Bective Rangers at Clonskeagh by a goal and a penalty goal to a try. Bective were without some of their leading players, but they did most of the attacking and got the only score in the first half, B. O'Brien getting over for a try. There was no further score till the last quarter of an hour, when Palmerston took over the attack. E. G. Flynn landed a penalty goal, and not long after D. Holmes, picking up during a dribbling rush, went over for a try, which, from an easy position, Flynn converted.

PARTY AGREEMENT OR AN ELECTION

MINISTERS' SPEECHES IN THE COUNTRY

WITH three Ministers of State making defence-of-policy speeches—two of them referring to the inevitability of a general election within the next seven months in the event of no agreement to the contrary—the pre-election campaign in the country may be said to have begun during the week-end.

"The Government will acquiesce in the postponement of an election if, and only if, it is evident that such course has general agreement, declared Mr. Sean Lemass, Minister for Supplies, whose speech at Limerick held the limelight.

Mr. P. J. Little, Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, spoke at meetings in Co. Waterford, and Mr. T. Derrig, Minister for Education, at meetings in Co. Kilkenny.

The danger of dictatorship, greatest when a great political force became disrupted, was mentioned by Dr. T. F. O'Higgins, when he foreshadowed the break-up of Fianna Fail at a Fine Gael Convention in Limerick on Saturday.

No Government, Mr. Lemass observed, could handle competently the difficult problems of the times unless it could feel that it had the good-will and unshakable loyalty of the majority of the people, and no people could keep unbroken the unity that the situation called for unless they believed they had a Government that would not let them down. "For those reasons," he added, "the Government considers it is in the national interests that, in default of agreement to the contrary, a general election should take place within the period prescribed by law. Should an election take place it will be the duty of Fianna Fail to secure the return of a Government with a clear majority, in whose ability and determination to defend the nation's independence, and the people's interests, it can have unquestionable confidence."

He spoke eulogistically of Mr. de Valera, whose leadership, high purpose, and clear vision were, he said, worth more in the defence of the national position than a hundred Panzer divisions or Flying Fortresses.

DISTORTED FACTS

Speaking of the Government's efforts to minimise the inconveniences, irritations and difficulties caused by the war, he declared that a deliberate stirring-up of public discontent by specious promises and distorted facts, the manufacture of grievances, the embitterment of sectional jealousies, and a whispering campaign of personal slanders had been used to bring down the present Government. Perhaps, he added, they may even succeed. He revealed that from the first day the war started there was a steady worsening of conditions in this country, and the Government was fighting a losing battle all the time. "Nobody can ever know how much worse conditions here might have been if the Government's measures had been less effective, but, judged by conditions in any other neutral European country, we have been amazingly lucky so far. So well has the Government planned that it can be said that if general world conditions do not affect us any more seriously than now, from this forward a general improvement, rather than a further deterioration, in supplies of many essential goods might reasonably be anticipated." The Minister paid a tribute to the Board of Irish Shipping, Ltd., which, as a result of the successful operation of the ships, now found itself in a position substantially to reduce the freights for all classes of merchandise.

Of the most serious of the economic and social problems, the maintenance of employment, he said that the drying-up process in industrial materials had not yet stopped, and he called for the co-operation of employers in keeping as many people as possible at work.

BIG DIFFICULTIES

Complaining that the Government was being blamed for matters quite beyond their control, Mr. Derrig warned Callan listeners that the Government, in their concentration on the production of food and fuel, are faced with serious difficulties, which will increase as time goes on. He claimed that the Government's wage and price control policy was designed in the general national interest, and had no other purpose whatever.

As the law stood, an election could not be avoided next year, and it would require, in all decency, the consent of all parties to pass such legislation as would postpone elections, Mr. P. J. Little pointed out.

F.G. PROMISES

Deprecating a wave of inaction, Dr. O'Higgins promised agriculture free loans for building and manures after the war, and a million and a half pounds to partly de-rate land. They also proposed an extension of the Shannon Electricity Scheme to the rural areas, and a system of family allowances of 2s. 6d. per week for every child, except the first, where the family income was less than £5 per week. He also warned his hearers against the danger of a dictatorship.

MEMORIAL SERVICES

LARGE ATTENDANCES

"In spite of our comparative immunity from the grim realities of war, it comes home to us in a variety of ways that, as the greater includes the less, the World War is one war, and we can no more keep ourselves aloof from its consequences than we can isolate ourselves from the elements of nature," said the Rev. Canon A. E. L. Stuart, B.D., Mullingar, at a Memorial Service in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, yesterday.

Among the very large congregation were diplomatic representatives from several European countries. They included Sir John Maffey, British Representative in Eire, and Lady Maffey; M. Goor, Belgian Minister; M. Cauvet Duhamel, representing the French Minister; Mr. G. F. Braddock, United Kingdom Trade Commissioner; Mr. Eduardo Hunter, Chilean Consul, and Mr. I. R. A. W. Weenink, Dutch Consul-General.

During the Service the Lessons were read by General Sir Eric de Burgh, K.C.B., D.S.O., O.B.E., and Major-General Sir George Franks, K.C.B., and the Benediction was pronounced by the Archbishop of Dublin.

TRINITY COLLEGE

At the Memorial Service in the Chapel of Trinity College, the preacher was the Very Rev. R. McN. Boyd, B.D., M.C., Dean of Killaloe, who spoke of the lessons to be learned from the last war. He hoped for a new order in the world, in which he exhorted those present to endeavour to take their full part.

ABBEY CHURCH

The Service in Abbey Presbyterian Church yesterday morning was observed as a Memorial Service and Rededication. In accordance with a custom observed for many years, the names of those members of the congregation who fell in the last World War were read, and it was followed by a minute's silence. The choir gave a very impressive unaccompanied rendering of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." The address, given by the Rev. R. C. Elliott, B.A., was based on the text, "For their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also might be sanctified through the truth." There was a large congregation.

PRO-CATHEDRAL

At the Pro-Cathedral, Marlborough street, the 11 o'clock Mass was celebrated by the Rev. J. Gunning, C.C. There was a very large congregation, those present including Brigadier-General E. G Wodehouse, representing Sir John Maffey, British Representative in Eire; His Excellency M. Maurice Goor, Minister Plenipotentiary for Belgium; Mr. J. D. Kearney, Canadian High Commissioner, and Mrs. Kearney; the Polish Consul-General; Señor E. F. Hunter, Chilean Consul; Dr. James Ashe, Alderman Alfred Byrne, T.D.; Mr. A. P. Connolly, Chairman, British Legion; Captains Hartigan, J. Scanlan and H. W. Ruddock (Area Council), Major Bruen, Major J. J. Tynan (Secretary, British Legion), etc.

TABLE TENNIS TITLE FOR H. MORRIS

Runner-up to C. A. Kemp in most of last season's tournaments, H. Morris won the Co. Dublin singles championships at Fairview on Saturday, but he had to go to the final game before disposing of B. Huet, one of the most promising young players that have turned out here for a long time. The women's singles was won comfortably by Mrs. Cooper (formerly Miss B. Heron), the Irish champion.

MUCKROSS SUPERIOR

MUCKROSS ... 4 LEINSTER 2

Muckross deserved their victory, their speed, combination and stickwork being superior to that of the opposition. Mrs. Whelan scored for Leinster from a centre by Miss McCarroll, and just before the interval Miss J. White equalised. In the second half Miss O'Mara (2) and Miss M. Strahan scored for Muckross, and Miss Luizzi for Leinster.

Leinster Senior Cup—Optimists v. Newcomes, U.C.D. v. Civil Service, Railway Union v. Maids 1st, Muckross v. Trinity, Muckross II. v. Pembroke Wanderers 1st, Loreto Past v. Wicklow Past, Maids II. v. Old College, Shielmartin v. Pembroke Wanderers II.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Sam Grey finished first in a field of 17 for the Clonliffe Harriers' O'Connor Cup race at Finglas on Saturday in the good time of 23 mins. 25 secs., and on handicap was beaten only by J. Redmond, who, off 6 mins. 30 secs., beat Grey by 5 secs.

Excessive Barrow Drainage Rates.—Although serious mistakes have been made in the assessment of the Barrow drainage rates, Mr. Joseph F. Morgan, M.I.A.A., Mountmellick, points out that no relief has yet been granted for heavy assessments on alleged improvements to land which is still waterlogged and flooded.

Cadle, J. Walker, J. Nolan, J. Bailey, N. Mulhall, P. Murray, H. J. Martin, N. Lazenby, D. Shields, J. O'Byrne, M. Burns, V. Stanley, J. Sinclair.

AMUSEMENT NEEDED

Recreation and amusement, said the Rev. J. M. Hayes, founder of Muintir na Tire, in St. Michael's Church, Tipperary, at yesterday's meeting of the Pioneer Total Abstinence Association, were healthy parts of a country's social life, but when they became commercialised the door was often opened to moral abuses. In this respect Pioneers must no longer be content with a negative policy. It was their duty to help to provide lawful amusement where the evils of drink would find no place.

BRITISH ISSUES IN DEMAND

ACTIVE conditions prevailed on the Dublin Stock Exchange during the past week, and public interest was much more widespread. As usual, Irish securities continued very much to the fore but the latest war advices had a cheering effect on leading cross-Channel Industrials, which jumped into demand. Prices in the latter group forged ahead and although some profit-taking caused an easier tendency in places, the close on Friday last was quite firm.

Owing to the sharp advances in Irish securities over the past couple of weeks, many people had appreciable profits on paper, but most of them seemed to be unwilling to turn them into cash owing to the difficulty of being able to pick up suitable investments at reasonable prices. Now a more hopeful view is being taken regarding cross-Channel securities, and many people are taking these profits and re-investing in sound leading Industrials.

G.N.R. PREFS.

Thus, the market in Irish Railway Stocks has turned dull but this reactionary tendency would appear to be only temporary, for, as soon as the present profit-taking dries up, we should see a recovery in this group. If, for instance Great Northern Preference shall fall back any further, it looks well worth picking up. The dividend on this stock seems reasonably assured for at least the duration of the war, and, consequently, it gives a high return for money invested coupled with prospects for capital appreciation.

Another feature was the spirited buying of Guinness units, which at one time reached a high war-time record of 120/-. As was only to be expected, this quick rise in price brought in a certain amount of selling. Yet, if one is looking for a first-class Industrial holding, these shares look attractive at the current price of 118/-. On last year's distribution of 29 p.c., the yield is comparatively good while the outlook, even during the present difficult times, is considered favourable.

The demand for Irish Industrials is still very persistent, and it would seem that investors are content to lock their purchases away for the return of more normal times. For instance, Alliance Gas Ord. made fresh headway at 21/9, and this is all the more remarkable in so much as the payment of the last dividend was only made possible by drawing on the reserve fund for some £22,000. Of course, the post-war prospects are excellent, and if people are prepared to hold they should well pay for their keep.

DRAPERIES IMPROVE

Once again Draperies are to the fore, and strong buying resulted in sharp gains in most cases. These concerns are all doing extremely well, and the reports for the current year should make an excellent showing. But it must be borne in mind that supplies are difficult to obtain, and that as time goes on, and the present period of emergency lasts, the position will, undoubtedly, get more serious. Of course, despite the recent jump in these shares, most of them are still standing at well under their par values.

There was also a keen demand for Smyth and Co. Ordinary shares, and they soared to 26/-. Last year this concern raised the Ordinary dividend from five to eight per cent. Provided the company can get sufficient supplies of raw materials, it should continue to do well, for there is an ever-increasing demand for all classes of hosiery. Pye (Ireland) Ord. were also favoured up to 7/-, at which level they do not look overvalued.

The P. J. Carroll and Co. report was well received, and the Ordinary shares quickly advanced to 31/6. The company continues to maintain a steady earning capacity, while the position regarding stocks is regarded as favourable. Further enhanced bids are being made for local Industrial Preference shares, but in most cases without result. It is becoming exceeding difficult to pick up any fixed interest-bearing security at a reasonable price.

THE STRENGTH OF EQUITIES

BY OUR LONDON FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.

VARIOUS groups of Stock Exchange securities are occasionally affected one way or the other by special circumstances, such as declarations of dividends, payment of interest arrears, or the contents of annual reports, but the main feature of markets is still the strength of Ordinary Stocks and Shares. In some measure, this is due to a desire to secure a profit by capital appreciations, and in some directions buying for this purpose has been well rewarded.

It is most difficult to say what is a proper valuation for any particular Equity. Initially, at least, the buying of Ordinary Shares during the recent appreciation was partly to obtain a higher yield than given by Trustee or other safety-first securities. In this matter, too, the views of investors have changed regarding the return that should be expected from such Equities as Courtaulds, Guinness, British Oxygen, Imperial Chemicals, Imperial Tobacco, J. and P. Coats and the like.

Broadly speaking, investors are content with a lower return from such issues than was the case some years ago.

The demand for Ordinary Stocks has included Home Rails, some of which have risen sharply, with the result that new buyers must be content with a smaller prospective return. The yield on Great Western and L.M.S. Ord. Stocks towards the end of September last was 8½ p.c., and on Southern Prefd. Ord. 7¼ p.c., but the returns at recent prices on the first issues are now 7⅛ and 7¾ p.c. respectively, and on Southern Prefd. it is 6¾ p.c. In the same period the prospective yield from L.M.S. 4 p.c. 1923 Pref. has declined from 6½ to 6¼ p.c.

A stock that is receiving considerable speculative attention is London and North-Eastern 4 p.c. and Pref., now quoted at about 30 to return over 7½ p.c. from last payment of 2½ p.c. At the end of September the quotation was 26, indicating a yield then of 9¼ p.c.

So far there has been no revival in Gilt-edged securities. As soon as the 3½ p.c. War Loan was quoted ex dividend on October 26 the price started to sag, and the stock now gives a rather attractive flat yield. Other leading trustee stocks are well maintained, and certainly give no indication of becoming cheaper to the buyer.

Several provincial brewers' companies have announced increased profits, and not a few are paying bigger dividends. The firmer market for such shares, therefore, has some justification, and there is scope for a further rise in some of them. Among these may be suggested: Matthew Brown (Cheltenham), Flower and Sons, Fremlins, John Groves, Hammonds (of Bradford), Marston Thompson, Meux (Newcastle), Parkers (Burslem), H. and G. Simonds, Tamplins, and Watney Combe Deferred.

This selection is based on the ratio of earnings to the dividend paid. For example, the total distribution on Matthew Brown Ord. for the past year was raised to 11 p.c., but earnings were equal to nearly 36 p.c. The Cheltenham Brewery earned fully 35½ p.c., but paid only 14 p.c., and Chester's Brewery of Manchester earned about 35½ p.c. and paid 24 p.c. In these three cases the yield at recent prices can be considered satisfactory.

Guinness were prominent in last week's rise, the £1 units gaining 7/- on the week at 118/6. On the basis of the last annual distribution, which was raised from 26 to 29 p.c., the indicated return is around 5 p.c.

The price of 75/-, as compared with under 50/- less than a month ago, for Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, on which only 7½ p.c., less tax, was paid for last year, looks almost crazy, but holders evidently think otherwise. They look at the past record of the company and its important position as one of the world's most important sources of oil. They have been through anxious times, for the war has come very near to those sources.

Another factor should not be overlooked. Shares such as these, with some certainty regarding the after war future, are ideal investments for the super tax payer who seeks capital appreciation rather than income. He can afford to wait, and it is partly to the support received from such sources that the strength of the shares may be attributed.

LONDON MONEY MARKET

In spite of the unexpectedly large allotments of Treasury bills obtained at Friday's tenders, the volume of business was moderate in Lombard street on Saturday morning. Some of the banks were buyers of bills sold for delivery next week, but the total turnover was not much, if anything, above the low average for Saturdays. Money over the week-end was readily available in outside quarters at ½ per cent.

LICENSED PROPERTY SOLD

W. J. Holden and Son, auctioneers, 2 Saint Andrew street, report having negotiated a sale for Mr. Hanlon to Messrs. Lane and Kennedy of the old-established licensed premises known as "The Lord Edward House," 148 Thomas street. It was at Nos. 151-152 that Lord Edward Fitzgerald was arrested in May, 1798. The street was also the scene of the execution of Robert Emmet in 1803.

Four Months for Ballinrobe Man.—At Ballinrobe on Saturday District Justice Coyne sentenced John Reilly (20), Abbey street, Ballinrobe, to four months' imprisonment on charges of housebreaking and larcenies.

MANCHESTER REVIEW

A satisfactory business has been maintained for all descriptions of commodities in this centre of the provision trade during the past week, with ample supplies of meats, fats and dairy products flowing steadily into consumption through the usual channels. A small mission from the Food Ministry is to be sent out to work in close consultation with the Australian Food Council and other Commonwealth departments concerned with supplies of foodstuffs to Britain. In this connection, certain experiments in dehydration of butter have been made with a view to saving shipping space.

A good demand was experienced for the moderate supplies of game, which were quickly cleared at full rates. Pheasants quoted—Cock 7/6, hen 6/9 each; red grouse 9/6, black 12/-, partridge 8/6 per brace, wholesale. Dead poultry comes forward steadily, but arrivals are insufficient for requirements. The position regarding turkeys is expected to be eased somewhat for Christmas by the fact that Manchester is one of the eleven industrial areas which are to receive turkeys from Eire. Manchester's poultry comes mainly from Eire. As an industrial area with an approximate 400,000 people within a radius of 25 miles, it is one of the distributing centres for poultry from Eire, which comes via Holyhead.

DOES YOUR CHILD TAKE COLD EASILY?

It is the constipated child who falls easy prey to infectious diseases. Constipation turns his body into a breeding ground for germs. Colds, coughs, catarrh, bronchitis and worse chest complaints are then easily caught, and all the time the child is constipated these complaints are getting a firmer grip. Therefore, if your child has a stubborn cold or cough, the first step to recovery is to make sure the little bowels act regularly. But, whatever you do, don't use a strong purgative that will act violently once or twice and then leave the bowels more bound than before.

The laxative most favoured and recommended by doctors and nurses is 'California Syrup of Figs.' They prefer it because they know it is safe and because, being a liquid laxative, the dose can be measured to a nicety to suit a child's system. And where can you find another laxative so natural and so safe? 'California Syrup of Figs' start a natural movement which relieves the system of all the germ-breeding poisonous waste and breaks up a cold and cough when other remedies fail.

A weekly dose will ward off further attacks and children love the flavour. Get a bottle of this ideal laxative to-day and be sure to ask for 'California Syrup of Figs' brand. 1/3 and 2/6. The larger size is the cheaper in the long run.

ONE bag instead of SIX . . .

Before war broke out the Dublin Gas Company got six times as much gas coal as it does to-day. Not only quantity has gone down, but the quality is of the poorest. In spite of this, the Company produced as many Therms for the first six months of this year as they did for the first six months preceding the outbreak of war. This is a technical achievement of which our engineers may well be proud.

Second Front

A new theatre of war was opened yesterday, when American soldiers descended in force upon North-West Africa. Ever since the announcement last week that a large concentration of Allied warships existed at Gibraltar, rumour has been busy with the possibility of an offensive somewhere in the Mediterranean; yet the actual manner of the offensive seems to have taken both the French authorities and the Axis Powers by surprise. The facts are, broadly, as follows:—In the early hours of yesterday morning an American force, described by Washington as "powerful," and estimated, in a message from Algiers, at 140,000 men, landed at various points along the coast of Algeria and French Morocco. These points range from Algiers, in the east, to Safi, in the west, on the very shoulder of Africa, and include virtually every port of importance along a coastline of six hundred miles. The actual news is confused. It is clear that the Americans have met with more or less severe resistance in many places, if not in all. According to New York radio, they have occupied Arzen and Bousfer, in the neighbourhood of Oran, as well as Algiers and Safi; Vichy admits the loss of Safi and substantial progress at Mehdia, in the vicinity of Rabat. The whole operation is a "combined" one in every sense of the term; for the British Navy and Air Force are lending assistance, and a strong contingent of British troops is expected in the immediate future. The diplomatic wires, inevitably, have been humming ever since yesterday morning. President Roosevelt opened the offensive, as it were, by a broadcast to the French, in which he declared that its primary purpose was to anticipate an occupation of France's African territory by the Axis Powers, its secondary purpose to restore the liberty and democracy of France. Leaflets appealing for French co-operation were showered by the million upon the North African towns—with what success is not yet known. The British Government has associated itself with President Roosevelt's statement of policy, and the British Ambassadors at Madrid and Lisbon have assured the Spanish and Portuguese Governments that there is no question of a threat to their territory, either metropolitan or overseas. Meanwhile, Marshal Pétain has rejected all the Anglo-American assurances. "We are being attacked, and we shall defend ourselves," he says; and the United States Chargé d'Affaires at Vichy has been requested to pack his bags.

If the Americans succeed in their occupation, the Allies will recover most of the advantages that they lost when their hold upon the Mediterranean weakened. As matters stand, they possess no base except Malta between Gibraltar and Alexandria; and, notable as Malta's defence against air attack has been for so long, the island is anything but a healthy place for ships. By the occupation of Algeria, however, they will be in a fair position to strike at Libya, and to seize the fine Italian bases there, from the west; and, if General Montgomery can maintain the pressure upon Field-Marshal Rommel's army, the whole southern shore of the Mediterranean will pass into Allied hands. Such an achievement could make a world of difference to the Allied cause. At present the ships that bear men and materials to India and Australia must make a terribly long and slow journey around the Cape of Good Hope; with the Allies once more in control of the Mediterranean, weeks of delay, involving millions of tons of shipping, could be saved. What will be the Axis reply? It is inconceivable that the Axis can overlook so dangerous a threat; yet it is hard to see what Herr Hitler can do. There seems to be no doubt that this Allied offensive is, indeed, the long-promised "second front"; President Roosevelt actually uses the phrase in his broadcast, and the joint radio appeal to the people of France says: "We enter to-day into the offensive phase of the war of liberation."

The "Juke Box"

Some little time ago the President of the American Federation of Musicians, one Mr. Petrillo, issued an edict to all the members of the Federation, forbidding them to make gramophone records, or to record performances in any other way. The motive for this decision was Mr. Petrillo's conviction that "canned" music was directly responsible for the unemployment of many musicians and bands. In particular, he laid the blame on the "juke box"—a type of gramophone largely used in cheap dance-halls and such places, which churns out a tune in return for a coin in the slot. Apparently the members of the Federation, in obedience to Mr. Petrillo's decree, have refused all further recording contracts; and Congress has been so alarmed by this step that a special Congressional Committee has been formed to consider the matter in full. According to the Director of the U.S. Office of War Information, the sabotage of the juke box is so serious as to "jeopardise the moral" of the troops. He says that without a proper supply of recorded music it will be impossible for the radio stations to function with the desired regularity, and that his own work as a disseminator of information will be very seriously hampered. It is improbable that the President of the American Federation of Musicians foresaw such nationally-important consequences for his action; but, in any case, it appears to have been over-drastic. It is true that, to some extent, musicians are put out of work by "canned" music, and that in dance halls, particularly, mechanical reproduction robs a whole band of an engagement. It is faulty reasoning, nevertheless, to suppose that wherever a record is employed a band might be. The greatest sale of gramophone records is to ordinary citizens, who like to listen to them at home. If they could get no records, they might, perhaps, learn to play instruments themselves; but they certainly would not engage Joe Loss and his band to drop into the drawing-room on a Sunday and act as a substitute. The ordinary citizen is of more importance in this juke box battle than Congress. Bands live or die according to his tastes; and records mean royalties, and a publicity without which there could be no such thing as "top line" and wealthy bands.

NO LONGER GREEN

Having brought good and bad news to the Irish people for over twenty years, the famous green telegram envelope has disappeared. It has been replaced by a buff envelope, with a thin green bar down one side, and with the words "Seachada in Aisge (No Charge for Delivery)" and "Telegram" in green ink.

"We've run out of green paper, you see," an official told a reporter. "You'll have to put up with buff envelopes for the duration now."

MR. CHURCHILL'S WAR SPEECH

Mr. Churchill will give a vivid account of the great campaign in Egypt, possibly disclose new facts about the American landing in French North Africa, survey the position in the other theatres of war, and, perhaps, make some assessment of the future when the new session of Parliament opens, says the Press Association Lobby Correspondent.

FILM NOTES

By Our Cinema Correspondent.

Green-Eyed Woman (Adelphi): Rosalind Russell, the quality of whose acting is as flawless as her wardrobe, has proved herself, in a succession of recent films, to be a player of sophisticated comedy parts far superior to Myrna Loy or the late Carole Lombard. It has been said that no man really likes a comedienne because the effort of being funny so frequently entails the sacrifice of womanly dignity. Rosalind Russell is certainly the exception to this rule, because she contrives to be at all times deliciously humorous without sacrifice of one whit of her natural poise and charm.

In this witty little picture she is excellent as the advertising executive who hires Fred MacMurray as secretary and foil to jealous wives, while she charms big business husbands into signing contracts while they are "high." Her feminist views are not proof against him; she is soon "spiritually in his lap," and he plays on her most womanly quality—jealousy—to bring her in, a landing net safely to the matrimonial bank.

In support is "Canal Zone," with an old plot, streamlined with Lockheed bombers and Chester Morris training ferry pilots, yanking them up into the twentieth century in six lessons. John Howard, as a grandstanding society flyer, holds out against the system, but in the end this "bull" also becomes an eagle.

The Bride Came C.O.D. (Savoy): Bette Davis, unlike Rosalind Russell, is not a born comedienne, nevertheless any picture in which she appears could never be a poor film. She plays the part of a glamour girl—"just another bottle-neck in the progress of man"—opposite the dynamic little Jimmy Cagney, and the result is a picture which, although slow-moving at times, is generally most entertaining. An irresistibly funny "Donald Duck" coloured short, featuring that extremely dog-like dog, "Pluto," also makes this cinema well worth a visit this week.

To the Shores of Tripoli (Theatre Royal): Based on a fast-moving screen play by Lamar Trotti, and magnificently directed by Bruce Humberstone and Darryl F. Zanunk, this is a truly spectacular film and well worth seeing. Its chief merit, however, lies, not in the efforts of Randolph Scott, John Payne and Maureen O'Hara to put a rather thin story about the love of a "leatherhead" for a U.S. Navy nurse, but in some wonderful shots of the Marine Corps in training at the San Diego base and the extraordinary excellence of the technicolour, which surpasses "Dive Bomber" in this respect. There are some shots of fleet target practice at night, which are so realistic that you can almost smell the cordite when the guns flash.

Whispering Ghosts (Metropole): Shadowy, sinister stuff abounds in this film, featuring Milton Berle and Brenda Joyce, which is well worth half your admission money. The other half will not be ill-spent either on the thriller, "Through Different Eyes."

The Man Who Returned to Life (Carlton) is John Howard, who gives a fine performance. His suicide car-ride with the villain's love-crazed sister will make you grip the arms of your seat. Any film which includes the charms of Rochelle Hudson and the admirable fooling of "Slapsie" Maxie Rosenbloom wouldn't even need to be so good. The supporting film, "The Stork Pays Off," nevertheless is good, and is directed with plenty of snap by Lew Landers.

Fire Over England (Capital) is a safe bet for the management of this theatre. One of Korda's best, with a magnificent cast of the cream of British acting, this film is one which was well worth reviving.

North to Klondyke (Corinthian) is a screen version of Jack London's famous story of pioneering days in Alaska, which, like the recent "Spoilers," has as its climax a spectacular bout of fisticuffs. This time it is Brod Crawford who grapples with Lon Chaney. The second picture is "Tough As They Come." I'll say it is!

SYMPHONY CONCERTS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES

SIR,—I read with interest "Music-Lover's" letter regarding the booking of seats for the Irish Radio symphony concerts, and agree that the retention of seats for numerous privileged persons is very unfair. Since these concerts are financed by the taxpayers, the public should have a fair opportunity of booking seats.

The great demand for seats for these concerts has clearly shown how unsuitable the Mansion House is for this purpose, even if the acoustics were good. There is no doubt that there has been a great revival of interest in classical music in this country, and with proper facilities the attendance at these concerts would be very much larger.

It is not likely that a concert hall will be built in Dublin during the war, but in the meantime surely other arrangements could be made. I would suggest the possibility of the Capitol or Gaiety Theatres on Sundays.—Yours, etc.,

"CADENZA."

T.C.D. NOTES
OPENING MEETINGS

From Our Correspondent.

TWO interesting opening meetings which will take place in College this week will be held on Friday next. The opening meeting of the D.U. Engineering Society will be held in the Physics Lecture Theatre, the chair being taken by Professor Purser, M.A., M.A.I., M.Sc., at 7.30 prompt. A paper will be read by Mr. Manning Robertson, M.R.I.A.I., F.R.I.B.A., the famous town-planner, on "Dublin Town Planning." Other speakers will include Dr. Harbison, D.P.H., County Medical Officer; Mr. T. C. Kingsmill-Moore, K.C., who is connected with the legal aspect of the subject, and Commander B. T. Coote, who is director of recreation at the Civics Institute. The Society wishes to state that it regrets that all its engineers may not have received invitations, but desires to assure any of them who may wish to attend the meeting of a cordial welcome.

On the same day the inaugural meeting of the D.U. Law Society will be held in the Graduates' Memorial Buildings. The chair will be taken at 7.45 p.m. by Mr. Justice Black, of the Supreme Court. As Auditor for the coming season, Mr. H. Tarlo, Sch., will read a paper on the jury system, entitled "Twelve Men in a Box." The speakers will include Kevin Dixon, B.Sc., S.C., Attorney-General; His Honour Judge Cahir Davitt, Circuit Judge; Lorcan G. Sherlock, LL.D., Sheriff of Dublin City, and J. A. Coutts, M.A., LL.B., Lecturer in General Jurisprudence.

The College Historical Society announces that the following awards have been made by its committee for the session 1942-'43:—Oratory—Gold Medal—A. Lieven, Sch. Silver Medal—J. N. Ross and T. H. Lyle. Composition — President's Gold Medal—T. H. Lyle, Sch. Society's Silver Medal — A. N. Jeffares, Sch. Four essays were submitted for the latter competition, the subject being "University." E. R. R. Green was awarded the Society's Gold Medal for History for his essay on "The Cotton Industry in North-Eastern Ireland." The Society's Silver Medal for History was not awarded. There will be a meeting of the Students' Christian Movement in No. 4, on Thursday next, at 8 p.m. The speakers, who it is hoped will be in Dublin for the occasion, will be the Rev. Alan K. Booth, B.A., LL.B., who is at present travelling the U.S.A. and Canada in connection with the International Student Service and the Students' Christian Movement, and who hopes to be in Ireland early next week, and Jocelyn Smiley, who has just returned from China, and who is speaking earlier that same day at the Fabian Mission meeting.

NEW PUBLICATION

Miss Jean Montgomery took up her present position of Lady Superintendent of the Kitchens over twenty years ago, and was the first lady in whose favour the "6 o'clock rule" was relaxed so far as to permit of her taking up residence within the precincts of Trinity College. She has often been pressed to write the "Memoirs" of her twenty years' experience in office, but has, so far, not been persuaded to do so. It has now been made known that a new book of hers is expected to be printed around about Christmas, if circumstances are favourable. This work will bear the provoking title, "Wee Saints and Scholars," and it is understood that it consists of a collection of twelve short stories, at least one of which deals with College life. "Wee Saints and Scholars" will be in close succession to Miss Montgomery's other, and highly successful, novel, "That Men May Eat," which was published two years ago. The latter dealt with the authoress's experiences during the last war, and its main object the "boosting up" of women cooking.

It was announced recently that the Chair of Ancient History will in future be known as the Louis Claude Purser Chair of Ancient History. This Chair is held by Dr. Herbert William Parke.

A subscription list has been put up in the rooms of the Historical Society towards a presentation to James Brien, ex-porter of the Graduates' Memorial Building and a familiar figure to many generations of Trinity undergraduates.

TRINITY PLAYERS

Last Thursday the Dublin University Players held their first general meeting of this year. Members decided that, since there was no revue during the Trinity Term of last year, when the "Insect Play" was so successfully performed by the Players, it would be suitable to present, instead of a play of high literary value, a new and original Christmas pantomime during the last week of the Michaelmas Term. This Christmas pantomime, complete with music, chorus and ballet, will be written by College undergraduates. It will be performed at the Peacock Theatre from Monday, the 30th inst., until Saturday, 5th December (inclusive). The performance on the 1st December will be a special attraction, because on the very same night the Players' popular masked ball will be held in the Metropole Ballroom from 9 to 3 o'clock a.m. It is rumoured that combined tickets for pantomime and dance may be issued.

It will be learned with pleasure that the Players have now secured producers to present Thursday afternoon shows in No. 6, with authors ranging from Strindberg to Myles na gCopaleen.

A VARIED TALENT
MABEL YOUNG'S ART

Good taste can be a handicap to artistic creativeness, and at Miss Young's exhibition of oil pictures and water-colours at the Shelbourne Hotel, one gets the feeling that the good taste which at times makes so genuine a colourist keep to subdued tones is rather a drawback. On the other hand, there are pictures here—especially a few studies in which the gold of autumn foliage is rather too vividly and bountifully stated that make one turn back with relief to the works in which a quieter note is struck.

Perhaps the choicest things in the exhibition are such water-colour studies as "The White Rocks, Killarney"; "Silver Birch Trees," "The Arbutus Tree" and others, in which all the artist's good qualities have coalesced to produce an effect of thoughtful quiet that is at once rarefied and simple. In these there is no uncertainty of taste, and no superfluity of detail. Everything seems inevitable and right. And there are sensitively felt passages of colour even where one's acceptance is less whole-hearted. Thus, there is a captivating freshness in "Cherry Blossom in Wicklow." It seems to be a matter of spring sunlight till one looks at "A Grey Day in Wicklow," and finds it has just as lovely a freshness with no sunlight at all. And though the foreground of "Evening Calm" is rather dull, the play of light in the middle distance and on the mountain background suggests something of the ideal serenity of mood that we associate with classic art.

CRUISKEEN LAWN

By Myles Na gCopaleen.

OFTEN I (indulge in) what may be termed legalistic day dreams. I mean I like to think that owing to a slip in some old Statute, I can arrive (to-morrow morning) with lorry-loads of sand, bricks, cement and other materials and build an enormous house right in the middle of O'Connell street, blocking the entire thoroughfare. Or lie down on an ODearest on the tramlines, reciting primly some old Cap. Vic. to the red-jowled raging tram-men. Or mount the stage of the Gaiety in the middle of a play and refuse to budge on the ground that I am in loco regis within the meaning of Section 98, Sub-section iii. of the Eighth of George the First.

There is one legal possibility that I have never had the courage to investigate. We have various acts which enable pensions to be granted for military service. Thus one entitles a person who can prove that he was in action in Easter Week, 1916, to so much. Other measures deal with persons who fought in the Black and Tan war and subsequently. My theory is that these enactments do not define the nationality of the persons who may benefit or distinguish "the enemy" and that thousands of British Tommies and Black and Tans are entitled under them to handsome allowances for life. One can imagine a Question in the House:

To ask the Minister for Defence if he will state the annual allowances paid to date to Sir Hamar Greenwood under the Military Service Pensions Acts, and whether, in view of in view of in view of in view of ——

The record's got stuck or something.

AN ENCOUNTER.

Those kids and their comic cuts (and they can get all the comic cuts they want from Jack Euclid) reminded me of an incident on the mail boat a few weeks ago when I was returning from one of my B.B.C. broadcasts. I saw an old man in the lounge wearing the Greyfriars tie. Something indefinably familiar about him attracted my attention. I thought I would chance (my arm).

"Excuse me, sir. Your name is not Wharton by any chance?"

"As a matter of fact it is," the old lad croaked.

"Harry Wharton?" I queried.

"Well, yes. Sir Henry Wharton if one wishes to be formal. Do have a drink old boy."

It was (none other) (than) Wharton of the Remove, withered by time and staled by something much more noxious than mere custom. We chatted far into the night. Where was good old Bob Cherry? Directing a timber cartel in the Canadian backwoods, his clean open nature could fit into nothing else. Quelch? Poor old Quelchy was dead, pernicious anæmia or something. Billy Bunter? Became a sort of Irish person, lives in a hut on the western islands speaking Gaelic, poor mental type at best of times. Good old Kildare, the Sixth Form prefect who would stand for no bullying? Got ten years, poor fellow, for some crime. Skinner, Snoop and Stott? Billiard markers in some Oxford Street dive, what would you expect after the way they used to break bounds to go to the Green Man?

Yes, many's a question I asked about ould times.

OBITUARY
MR. JOHN T. DRENNAN

Mr. John T. Drennan, of Moyne, Greystones, Co. Wicklow, whose death occurred on Saturday at Kilkenny, was the second son of the late Mr. William Drennan, Assistant Registrar in the Registry of Deeds. He was educated at the High School, Dublin, and at Trinity College, where he graduated in 1897. He was prominent in the social life of the college, and an important member of the Philosophical Society, of which he was President in 1898-9; his inaugural address was on the Democratic Tendencies of the Age. In the same year he was called to the Bar. He had a long and distinguished career in the Civil Service. He started in 1892 in the office of Sir Robert Holmes, Treasurer Remembrancer and Paymaster-General, whence he passed to the Land Registry. In 1905 he was appointed Chief Clerk of the Estates Commissioners, becoming in 1908 Registrar and Assistant Secretary. In 1917 he became Assistant Secretary of the Land Commission, and Secretary in 1923. He retired in 1930. Since that date he practised at the Bar and acted as secretary to the Railway Tribunal.

Such was, in outline, the official and professional career of John T. Drennan; it was a fine career of promotion well earned and thoroughly justified. But it was for his social qualities that he was most appreciated by the wide circles of his friends and acquaintances. His genial kindliness appealed alike to old and young; he was equally at home in a crowded drawingroom and the smokingroom of a club; and children regarded him as a sort of fairy godfather. He possessed a fund of good stories and knew how to tell them. It would not be easy to match him as a companion, either for the small occasions of everyday life or for a holiday tour. His humour and whimsical imagination discovered entertainment in the most unlikely quarters, explaining the mysteries of Irish life and politics to awestruck Saxons or organising some novel archæological society in a Scotch hotel. There was no company so dull that he could not enliven it. He cherished especially the friendships of school and college days. He was a devoted son of Trinity, with which he kept in close touch in many ways. He was a valued member of several clubs, especially of the University Club, where his old-world courtesy and charm will be sorely missed by younger members. Nature mixes the elements differently in different men. She gave an extraordinary measure of human kindness to John T. Drennan. One could not conceive him guilty of a deliberate unkindness or of refusing to do a kindness if it was in his power to do it. Lame dogs came to him continually, confident that he would help them over their stiles; and he did all that one man could to justify their confidence. "Little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness" formed the best portion of his life, and shall blossom in the memories of those who mourn him to-day.

MOUNT STREET CLUB

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

A MILLION tons more of straw than in 1941 have been produced throughout Britain this harvest, and Mr. Hudson's Department is emphasising that farmers must look round for new ways of using this additional straw in a way that will benefit both their farms and the country. No oat straw should be used for any purpose except the feeding of live-stock, especially if it has been well harvested, in which case it will have a feeding value nearly as good as that of hay. For other types the possibility of straw pulp should be investigated, as after caustic soda treatment many straws have a higher feeding value even than the best untreated oat straw. A scheme is in operation for the free distribution of caustic soda plants in approved cases. The maximum prices which may be obtained at present are £4 3s. and £5 3s. a ton respectively for wheat and oat straw baled at the farm.

Rain Water

The Metropolitan Water Board is asking householders to collect rain water. By using it housewives will be able to do without soda and other softening preparations. If every Londoner used rain water occasionally, the Board would achieve its object of saving sixty million gallons of tap water daily—equivalent to 630 tons of coal a week. For some weeks now all A.R.P. cars in the London County Council area have been washed with rain water collected by the Civil Defence staffs.

Scottish Agriculture

Sir Patrick Laird, Secretary of the Department of Agriculture in Scotland, reveals that the total acreage under crops is much larger than at the close of the last war. The record tillage area in Scotland was in 1870, and this year's cropping area comes very near that. By means of increases planned for certain crops in 1943, the 1870 record should be beaten. Wheat has increased by fourteen thousand acres, as compared with last year; barley by 35,000, oats by 88,000, beet by 12,000, and potatoes by 27,000. Sir Patrick is a little disappointed about the acreages of beans and flax, both of which have increased only slightly, and, although urgent appeals were made to raise the carrot acreage, the response there has been disappointing. Live-stock returns show a significant increase in the number of heifers due to calve before the end of February, and there is no falling-off in the number of calves that are being reared. He attributes the improvement in the number of feeding cattle on farms to Irish imports.

Medical Man-power

For the first time in Britain's history, a complete medical "Domesday Book" has been completed. It has been drawn up by the Medical Personnel Priority Committee, of which Sir Geoffrey Shakespeare, Mr Lloyd George's private secretary at the time of the Anglo-Irish Treaty, is Chairman. The survey contains details of the medical and nursing staff of each voluntary and municipal hospital, and the amount of work each establishment is called upon to do. By means of it the authorities will be able to decide which districts or establishments have a surplus of medical man-power which can be drafted to the Services.

Sir H. Walpole's MSS.

When Sir Hugh Walpole died last year he left to Keswick, the town of his adoption, the original manuscript of his "Herries Saga" of the Lake District. The manuscripts of the "Herries Chronicles"—"Rogue Herries," "Judith Paris," "The Fortress" and "Vanessa"—contained in sixteen thick volumes and handsomely bound in morocco, now have been presented to the Chairman of the Keswick Urban District Council. They will be on view at the Fitz Park Museum with other Lakeland literary treasures. Sir Hugh Walpole spent a quiet holiday in the little village of Ballymore, Co. Donegal, in August, 1918. He never used a typewriter for his work and there are few alterations in his deliberate and legible handwriting.

Link with Tangier

The biggest landowner in Tangier, now in the news, is the Marquess of Bute. He is the proprietor of the biggest hotels both there and in Gibraltar. A hundred years ago the Marquess's grandfather stinted himself of every luxury and mortgaged his considerable possessions to convert a small fishing village, Cardiff, into one of the world's great ports. The Bute millions come from coal, but the trade in South Wales received its first great impetus from the construction of Bute docks. The first of these docks was built at a cost of £350,000, and from this venture the Bute fortunes grew.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Waistline Retreat

When I met Mr. Vernon Bartlett some years ago he appeared to have a little more weight than he now carries. It was on the subject of weight and feeding that he got his audience laughing in T.C.D. last week. He was talking about food rationing in England, and, after describing some mistakes that had been made and rectified before the plain people of Britain sent their letters to the M.P.s, he stood upright and asked the question: "How do you think the war has dealt with my waist-line?"

True enough, there has been surprisingly little damage done, though he will forgive me if I say that his double-breasted jacket billowed slightly. I noticed, too, that his jacket pockets carried no flaps, and I did not look to see if he was minus turn-ups on his trousers.

Having heard Mr. Bartlett, I find it hard to believe his confessed difficulty and fear of broadcasting, as told in his book about newspaper work, "This is my Life."

Youth

Mr. Eugene Collins writes me:—

When I read your note a few days ago on the values of youth and age I was reminded of an incident which took place before the Recorder sitting in Green street many years ago.

An application was made by a publican for a licence in Capel street. The counsel employed was unable to attend, and handed over the brief to another member of the Bar who was a much better literary scholar than lawyer. He was told that there would be no opposition to the application, and, having only scanned through his brief, applied for the licence. He then found he was opposed, principally on the ground of the youth of the applicant, and when he got up to reply said:—

"Alexander the Great at 22 years had crushed the Illyrians to the ground, had crossed the Hellespont at the head of his army, had conquered Darius, and brought the great Persian army under his sway.

"At 22 Déscartes had evolved a new system of philosophy.

"At 24 Pitt was Prime Minister of England.

"At 24 Napoleon overthrew the enemies of the Republic with a whiff of grapeshot at Paris.

"AND AT 25 IS JOHN McCARTHY too young to manage a public house in Capel street?"

The application was granted.

Canterbury

Mr. H. V. Morton's latest book, "I Saw Two Englands," contains some interesting references to Canterbury, particularly pointful in view of the recent raid. When visiting the town in the summer of 1939, he was surprised to notice among an array of mock-Tudor tea-shoppes and antique stores a window full of A.R.P. and fire-fighting appliances.

"No one seemed interested in this window," he writes, "and I was its only student. I thought it a grim contrast to the crowded, happy tea shops of Canterbury, an ogre of a shop, something too grotesque to be comic, too improbable to be true. At the same time, the rattles and hand-bells, instead of appearing the most modern of all window displays, had a queer air of the archaic, as if they were a collection of byegones in a museum.

"I found it difficult to imagine men running through the lovely streets of Canterbury waving rattles or ringing bells. Surely Canterbury will never know the sound of war."

Cat in the Night

The entrance gate of Trinity College always has been a dark spot, and is even darker under the present lighting restrictions. For all that, it is not haunted, so far as I know, but for many minutes recently I was kept guessing hard.

As you may know, notices of College meetings are posted on a board under the archway. Some of the longer posters hang from the bottom of the board and almost touch the ground. When I was trying to read one notice in the semi-darkness some of the larger notices were whipped away by an unseen hand. A strong breeze carried them off.

When four or five notices had so disappeared, I began to think of "spooks," I pulled out a pocket-torch to help in investigation. At my feet I discovered a tiny black kitten, which was smacking hard at the remaining posters as their downward ends fluttered in the wind.

RELIGIOUS ART
ROUAULT'S PLACE AS ARTIST

The real artist—like the real prophet — must be prepared for stoning, and Rouault was a real artist, said the Very Rev. E. Leen, C.S.Sp., D.D., D.Litt., speaking on "Georges Rouault and his place in religious art," at a meeting of the Friends of the National Collections of Ireland at the Royal College of Surgeons, Dublin, on Saturday last.

There could be no blasphemy, he said, where art laid bare relentlessly, even cruelly, the innocence of reality. Irreverence was rather in many of the sacred statues in our own churches, which were irreverent because in their earthiness and sensuousness they generated an earthiness in relation to things divine. There were three divisions of art: imitative, creative, and interpretative—the last being the highest form. Interpretative artists did more than merely pierce through phenomena to the reality behind. They did violence to the shapes of men to force them to express the inexpressible. In interpreting actual scenes, they used an economy of material, and their design would be thwarted if they were to be halted by the necessity for delineating form. The picture showed the insensitiveness of man to the God of Man and nature.

Miss Evie Hone said that the art of Rouault was at one with the traditions of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. In carrying on this tradition he was not content with merely copying the great Romanesque work of the past. He was expressing in the idiom and manner of his period the great traditional truths that were eternal. She could understand the shock his art would be to those who were accustomed to the sentimental type of religious art, blindly accepting the work of the Renaissance masters without understanding.

Miss Mainie Jellett said that Rouault's art could not be ignored. It was vital as art, and vital as a religious manifestation.

Mr. Thomas MacGreevy said that the controversy which had raged over Rouault's picture showed that we were progressing. We in Ireland were in the peculiar position of having had no religious art since the Reformation, which had been iconoclastic. The same was true of both England and Germany. Italy, and, to some extent, France, had developed so much in art that religious art had become almost a department of its own. Only in Spain, he said, was art overwhelmingly religious.

In the absence of Mr. Dermod O'Brien, P.R.H.A., who was unable to be present, the chair was taken by Mr. C. P. Curran. Rouault's "Christ and the Soldier" was on view.

QUALITY

A kind of intrinsic goodness which makes it possible for an article to grow very, very old, but never to lose its dignity. Newell's have always been noted for quality—which is now, more than ever the important thing—and remember you get the best for less at Newells!

Double Your Charm..
From our "Model Gown" Section we present this smart Afternoon Frock, the new silhouette—with twelve neat gores in skirt, so you can walk gracefully, easily and freely. Beautifully made in heavy quality Mousse Crêpe, the neat grouped tucking adds to the charm of the bodice. Finished with rich suede belt and spray in contrasting shades, a frock that is right—for any informal function. Obtainable in shades of Prairie Rose, Pillar Box, Bayleaf Green. Sizes 38 and 40. Specially Priced at..... 4½ GNS.

A Thoroughbred....
This "MARLBECK—TAILOR-MADE" is a thoroughbred among coats. A cheeky, up-to-the-minute style in cosy, brushed wool cloth. With its firm built shoulders, Dolman sleeves, three-button fastening, and tie-over belt, it is a real figure flatterer. Two unpressed pleats add "dash" to the back, and you'll simply love to sink your hands DEEP in the snug pockets. Shades: Brown, Hushing Green, Navy and Grey. Sizes 8, 9, W. An 8 Guinea Coat at .... 6½ GNS.

Why I changed TO MINER'S LIQUID MAKE UP

—by A JOURNALIST

I'm always on the "rush-around" so half a minute with Miner's Liquid Make Up and—presto, a beautiful velvety-smooth foundation that STAYS matt throughout the day without a sign of streak or shine and won't rub off or smear. It's hot work chasing after "Copy" and only Miner's Liquid Make Up will stand the strain. Perfect when I've no time for touching up. Another thing ... it's my job to keep up-to-date and in cosmetics that means Miner's—the only really perfect powder base.

MINER'S Liquid MAKE UP
In 5 skin-matched shades, 2/- & 8d.
HENRY C. MINER LTD., London & New York
THE ONE FOUNDATION THAT STAYS MATT WHATEVER HAPPENS

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

without Calomel—and you'll jump out of bed in the morning full of vim and vigour.

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk, and the world looks punk.

Laxatives help a little, but a mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carters Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carters Little Liver Pills. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 1/3 and 3/-.
